Event Sponsor: Turnaround Management Association

The Turnaround Management Association hosts the annual NextGen conference in a virtual format this year. The experience gives young professionals the chance to elevate their practice by forging new meaningful relationships, building a future referral base, and working on career growth and business development.

Morris Nichols partner Matt Harvey serves as a panelist in the educational session, “How COVID-19 Has Affected the Restructuring Industry.” Panelists will discuss how COVID-19 has changed business development, personal habits, and what they have seen change in their practice. They will also discuss how restructuring professionals are operating in light of the pandemic.
