

Complex Commercial Litigation

Morris Nichols offers a broad range of complex commercial litigation services to national and international corporate clients, as well as Delaware businesses. Our lawyers regularly appear before all of the major Delaware state and federal trial and appellate courts, local boards, and administrative agencies.

We advocate on behalf of clients that represent a cross-section of the Fortune 500 - from those in energy, finance, telecommunications, healthcare, and pharmaceuticals to manufacturing, media, retail, and transportation. We represent them in connection with virtually every type of commercial dispute including claims for breaches of supply agreements, non-competition agreements, asset purchase agreements, and other breach of contract actions.

