Brian is an associate with the Bankruptcy & Restructuring group.

His practice focuses on in-court and out-of-court restructurings, distressed asset sales, and bankruptcy litigation.

Before joining Morris Nichols, Brian served as a judicial intern to the Honorable Jack M. Sabatino of the New Jersey Superior Court's Appellate Division, gaining valuable experience drafting legal opinions in a variety of civil and criminal matters.

In law school, Brian served as a student advocate with the Federal Litigation and Appeals Clinic. In that role, he represented immigration detainees seeking asylum and relief under the Convention Against Torture, with a focus on appellate litigation. He was an executive board member with Drexel Moot Court and competed in the Philip C. Jessup International Moot Court Competition, where he received recognition as a top oralist and brief author in consecutive regional competitions. Brian served as a research assistant for Tabatha Abu El-Haj, focusing on the First Amendment, election law, and the law of peaceable assembly. Also, during law school, he was the recipient of the Cozen O'Connor Award for Exemplary Moot Court Performance and the CALI Award for Best Student Performance in Contracts, Torts, and Legislation and Regulation.
